

Now you can join the iVoteAmerica network by licensing and operating your state's iVoteAmerica website and blog.

We are building a network of political blogs ("PLOGS"), state-by-state for use by proactive Americans who want to influence political outcomes in favor of traditional conservative values.

iVoteAmerica believes that fundamental change can only occur through the election cycle and that the election cycles can and will be influenced by Americans who are proactively engaged in the process of impacting and influence others with the truth.

This Feature Sheet will give you an overview of the iVoteAmerica State Network and how you can become the leader of your State website and blog.

Each of the sites is built in similar design to the attached example from iVoteArizona.com. The difference is the content, which will be different state-by-state. Each of the iVoteAmerica state websites will be linked to all others and to www.iVoteAmerica.com.

It costs money to build and maintain a network of this size and complexity. In short, we cannot offer the network free but we have made every attempt to control the design. States are licensed based upon the population of the State.

Features of the Political Blogs (“PLOGS”)

Your iVoteAmerica state website is a political blog; we call these “PLOGS” for short. The features of the sites allow you as the Licensee to post information about local, national and state elections and political issues.

You can build a subscriber list and maintain contact with them. Each subscriber receives automatic notifications each time new content is loaded to the site.

As the Licensee of your state PLOG you can post polls on a variety of subjects that are important to your state and of course, to the national political scene.

You will have an email address(es) related to your site, such as info@iVoteTexas.com or, perhaps support@iVoteOregon.com or you may use your name such as, Bob@iVoteAlaska.com.

You political colleagues can join you in posting information to the site. You can build a political awareness team that manages the content. The iVoteAmerica Network is predicated on citizens voicing their opinions.

Go ahead, interview candidates and post the interviews on your site.

In addition, you may sell approved advertisements to offset some or even all of your costs.

At your option, you may attend iVoteAmerica online events designed specifically to assist you with networking, collaboration and training.

The core message of the iVoteAmerica Network is voting, since voting is the key to replacing the existing unacceptable government with people aligned with America’s traditional historical values and Licensees must accept the tenets of our iVoteAmerica Manifesto as a part of the qualification process.

You can contact us at www.iVoteAmerica.com/contact or, if you prefer, you may email us at iVoteAmerica@gmail.com. We will respond.

Above all, pray for our nation and vote for those who share your commitment to the fundamental values that have made America the greatest nation in the history of the world.

God bless America,

Donald Teel, Founder

Can a Hockey Mom Lead a Nation?

The mystery is over. Governor Sarah Palin of Alaska is real, very real. She is also capable of delivering knock out lines with a whimsical smile.

In an exceptionally gender-biased mind-bending way the liberal, left leaning, mainstream media continues to put the forth the questions, "Can a mother of five from small town America lead a nation?"

Napolitano Defending Palin? What the...

Well, politics and pragmatics must be making good bedfellows of late because Arizona's Democratic Governor Janet Napolitano is defending Sarah Palin.

The Yuma Sun reported that Gov. Janet Napolitano agreed with what most American's already knew, Sarah Palin's coverage by the elite media was sexist and biased with respect to the Palin family's private relationship with their pregnant teen daughter.

What the... is happening with Janet?

Mr. President, Tear Down This Dam!

Water resources are an incredible asset to Arizona.

Environmentalists have been issuing dire warnings regarding the long term effects of Glen Canyon Dam on the Colorado River, its downstream communities, the hydro-sustained ecosystems and yes, even the climate.

But are these warnings based on fact? Should the dam be removed? Should we return the Colorado River to its original habitat? Can the Colorado River be sustained forever without a major disruption of the downstream plant and wildlife? What would we gain and what would we lose if we instructed the Federal Government to "tear down this dam"?
